

ADR STRATEGIES

JOAN B. KESSLER, JD, PHD

You are receiving this communication as a result of your interest in alternative dispute resolution.

Some important mediation issues for your consideration:

- Are the litigants being realistic about the possible case outcomes? Can the attorneys, in conjunction with the mediator, help the litigants be more realistic?
- Is there anything in addition to money that will resolve the dispute? Is the mediator able to get the parties and counsel to think outside the box?
- Have emotions clouded the litigants' ability to make informed business decisions about settlement? Can counsel and the mediator help focus the parties on the settlement objectives and reduce the emotional component?
- Is the mediator able to effectively communicate with all parties and counsel?

Many of these issues regularly come up at a mediation and reinforce the importance of effective communication skills.

Many years ago I received a Ph.D. from the University of Michigan in Communications. Before I went to law school I taught interpersonal relations, group interaction, conflict resolution, intercultural communication courses and served as a jury consultant. I apply the communication issues and solutions I taught, coupled with 25 years of legal practice experience to my alternative dispute resolution practice.
